On Sunday, December 17th, at 10:30 o'clock in the morning—and that is to-morrow morning—the new and beautiful Catholic Church building of All Souls' parish will be dedicated by the Most Reverend Archbishop Edward J. Hanna, dedicated as a house of God in this young city.

Celebrant of the mass, Rev. M. D. Connolly; deacon, Rev. C. E. Kennedy; subdeacon, Rev. T. L. Murphy, S. J.; master of ceremonies, Rev. James A. Grant.

The Knights of Columbus of San Mateo County and the young ladies of the society of All Souls' parish will march in the procession.

The ceremonies will be dignified, impressive and inspiring.

The new church, which has a seating capacity of five hundred, will be overcrowded. Catholics and non-Catholics will be welcomed to make the dedication of this splendid church building an event in the history of South San Francisco. It is entirely true and fitting to speak of the dedication of this beautiful church building as an event in the life of this city, for no improvement made during the past three years has been so much observed and so greatly admired by the public at large as has this fine church and its group of buildings.

It is a splendid building, standing upon a splendid site at the top of and crowning with a crown of glory the civic and religious center of this young city.

This city is, and will be, proud of this noble achievement.

Our people, churchmen and non-churchmen, owe a debt of gratitude to Rev. Father James P. Moran, the beloved pastor of All Souls' parish, for this grand addition to the uptown buildings of our city.

Three years ago Father Moran came here to an unorganized parish.

Within that brief period the good father has, by his zeal and untiring efforts, accomplished the complete organization of the parish, and begun and completed the latest and greatest glory of this fair young city, the new Catholic Church, which is the "thing of beauty and a joy forever."

In the evening a week's mission will begin for all the people of the parish, and will be conducted by the well-known missionary, Rev. T. A. Meagher, S. J.

SUDEN DEATH OF ANTOINE BORELLI

This morning Antone Borelli, dropped dead beside a small wade he had been hunting. Mr. Borelli had been working for Mr. G. Stewart and went to his work as usual this morning. Mr. Stewart, going to see Borelli found him lying beside his wade. The cause of his death is unknown.

The inquest to be held may disclose it.

Antone Borelli was a man of good habits and had lived in this city some fifteen years and owned his family residence at Badon avenue near the grammar school. He leaves a widow and three children, all girls.

The family have the heartiest sympathy of The Enterprise and the entire community.

A Play Teeming With Heart

Throbs of Thwarted Love

By Dustin Farnum

Palladium pictures presents Dustin Farnum in "Too Late," a terminally hopeless, but heart-tugging story of thwarted love.

THREE

Hap Sauer, President

Joseph B. Johnson, Vice President

Frank H. McLeod, Secretary

A striking contrast of the numbing in the midst and the unworldly fascination in "Too Late," the Palladium production coming to the Forth Theatre next Thursday evening, December 4th, on the Paramount program.

In the scene where Ben, the unpolished waster, goes to face his former classmate with Flint, the society fiend who has rejected him in marriage, Florence Winthrop's favor, the two lines of types are effectively used. Thus finds Flint drinking heavily with simulated friends, and on their departure he vectors his wasted blood forces him to "lie". "You've the sameadle's love for me and the woman I love. Can you tell me why she won't marry me?" But his woman friend lacks the nerve to tell him his own wife's secret. "God help me provide you with the needed truth," he swears, "I won't live to see that story."

Cruel thoughts and past memories make his blood boil. He goes to Florence's father with a plan that would support the deluded woman's ambition and father and help him to strengthen the woman's dreams to a certain

PREFERENCES WITH A FUNK.

Much has been said and written during the past two years as to national preparations. From present indications it appears as if the policy of the country to bring about thorough preparations is the policy we will see soon should war come. As a result of this, cities are organized for war, Mexico is a part of the situation, and war is not far removed. Mexico is a part of the situation, and war is not far removed. Mexico is a part of the situation, and war is not far removed.

The city as we know it today is a part of the situation, and war is not far removed. The city as we know it today is a part of the situation, and war is not far removed.

Our city is the leading city in the matter of national defense. Our city is the leading city in the matter of national defense. Our city is the leading city in the matter of national defense.

"DO UNTO OTHERS."

Friend, have you ever asked yourself what it is to do unto others? To do unto others means to treat others as you would like to be treated. It is a simple rule of conduct and yet one of the most difficult to follow.

"BEYOND OTHERS."

Now let us consider what it is to do beyond others. To do beyond others means to go beyond what is expected of us. To do beyond others means to go beyond what is expected of us.

"BETTER THAN OTHERS."

And now let us consider what it is to do better than others. To do better than others means to do more than is required of us. To do better than others means to do more than is required of us.

"BETTER THAN YOURSELF."

And now let us consider what it is to do better than yourself. To do better than yourself means to improve yourself. To do better than yourself means to improve yourself.

"DO YOUR WORK.""

Safeguarding the Rights of the Railroads

The Enterprise—South San Francisco, Cal.

Despite the efforts of B. A. P. Williams, General Manager of the Southern Railway, to clarify the situation, the company's officers have been receiving complaints from the public regarding the recent fare increases.

The following statement was issued by the company:

"The increases were necessitated by the rising cost of operation and maintenance. We have always attempted to keep our fares as low as possible, but the recent developments have made it necessary to pass on these costs to the public.

"We believe that the public will understand and support our efforts to maintain a viable railroad system.

"Thank you for your continued support and patience.

Sincerely,
B. A. P. Williams, General Manager.

SAFETY DEMANDS FEDERAL CONTROL OF THE RAILROADS

Only Way to Meet Emergencies of Nation, Says A. P. Thom.

States' Rights Preserved

Principles Which Railways Hold Should Be Used by All Governments, Insists Railway Executive.

Washington, D.C.—Thus the interests of the nation demand that control of railways should rest with the federal government. This was asserted by A. P. Thom, a railroad executive, who is a member of the Interstate Commerce Commission.

Thom stated that the present system of state regulation is not adequate to meet the needs of the nation. He argued that the government should have exclusive control of the railways in order to ensure the safety and efficiency of the system.

"The present system of state regulation is inadequate," said Thom. "It is time that the federal government assume control of the railways in order to ensure the safety and efficiency of the system.

"We must have a system that is fair to all and that can be relied upon to ensure the safety of the public.

"The federal government is the only entity that can provide the necessary resources and expertise to ensure the safety and efficiency of the railways."
Do You Know My Good Pal?

By June Brown

There is no such thing as a "good pal." You'll find him always near; so try to make him your companion, no matter what your plan.

If he's not on your path, you'll find him always there; so try to make him your companion, no matter what your plan.

And if you're not near, you'll find him always near; so try to make him your companion, no matter what your plan.
